▼ Leadership

Leadership is not something that is simply second nature to most people. It is learned and developed through experiences, positive role models and a lot of trial and error. Whether speaking to high school students or executives in business, Coach Randy knows leadership is a mandatory skill set in today's competitive global world.

▼ Success

We are "domesticated" with a Blueprint for Life. We are told to study hard, get good grades, get into a good college, get a good job, and make a lot of money to be successful. It's a design we nearly all buy in to yet discover it doesn't work. Whether you are a high school student, college graduate, or a professional dealing with the unexpected transition, identify how your own belief system is getting in your own way.

▼ Bullying

Bullying has taken on an entirely new meaning and definition in recent times. There are numerous types of bullies that have taken on new and innovative ways to hurt their targets. Whether it's the grade school bully, high school mean girl, or corporate glass ceiling and executive politics, the need to identify bullying behavior in our society is more important now than ever before.

▼ Sports/Athletes/Teams

Research has proven that participating in sports offers significant life skills and lessons that lay the foundation for a successful future. Sports offer numerous opportunities to teach and guide our behavior as athletes, coaches, or corporate managers. The mindset of an athlete can be tremendously helpful throughout all aspects of life.
